

Marino A. Bruce, PhD, MSRC, MDiv
Associate Dean for Research and
Professor of Behavioral and Social Sciences

Panel Discussion: AI in Healthcare: Challenges in Health Equity and AI/ML

Marino A. Bruce, PhD, MSRC, MDiv is Associate Dean for Research and Professor of Behavioral and Social Sciences in the University of Houston College of Medicine as well as Founding Director of the Program for Research on Faith, Justice, and Health. Dr. Bruce is a sociologist who examines the full range of determinants as they relate to the onset and progression of chronic diseases among African American males over the life course and across generations. He is a former editor of Research on Race and Ethnic Relations, current associate editor of Ethnicity and Disease and Behavioral Medicine, and co-editor of two recent books, Men's Health Equity and Racism: Science and Tools for the Public Health Professional. Dr. Bruce is also an ordained Baptist minister and his current work leveraging professional, educational, and clerical experiences has been featured on numerous global media outlets including USA Today, The Today Show, and Time Magazine. He earned a bachelor's degree in Economics from Davidson College and master's degrees in Rural Sociology, Divinity, and Rehabilitation Counseling from North Carolina State University, Piedmont Theological Seminary, and Winston Salem State University, respectively. Dr. Bruce earned a PhD in Sociology from North Carolina State University and received postdoctoral training in Family Medicine from the University of Wisconsin-Madison and in Biobehavioral Health from Duke University.